JAYCEES HOIST JOLLY ROGER

Avast, ya landlubbers. 'Tis the cut-throat crew of the Kelowna Junior Chamber of Commerce out to publicize its upcoming British Columbia and Yukon convention to be held at the Capri May 28 to 31. And the theme, of course, is apparent in the swashbuckling garb displayed by Aggie Wightman, extreme left, Jaycette convention chair-

More than 200 delegates have already registered for the event, which will alternate between the Capri, the Memorial Arena and the Aquatic. —(Courier photo)

Union Hopes To Dry Up Flow Of B.C. Refinery Products

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union planned further talks with the B.C. Federation of Labor and other unions today in a bid to make effective a scheduled strike of 700 members against three major British Columbia refineries.

The union launched a strike against the Shell Canada refinery in suburban Burnaby Wednesday and set a strike date of 4 p.m. today against refineries of Imperial Oil Ltd., Standard Oil Co. of B.C. Ltd. and Gulf Oil (Canada) Ltd.

Two other oil firms involved in the wage dispute, Home Oil and Texaco, buy their products from other refineries.

With only 700 members to man picket lines, the union hopes to cut supplies to key industries rather than attempt to block retail service station sales.

"We hope to dry them up, and will do our best to, but we are not foolish enough to think we can do it completely," union president Tom Phillips said Thursday.

Shell, using supervisory personnel, has kept its refinery running at an undisclosed level of production. Standard and Imperial reportedly were going to attempt the same.

Gulf Canada planned to shut its refinery, saying it would maintain its supplies to customers but not divulging how it would do so.

TANKERS EXPECTED

Union spokesmen said they expect Gulf will bring oil products in by tanker and unload it at a company dock operated by supervisors. They said other refineries also are expected to import oil by tanker if they are unable to produce enough to supply customers.

Refineries of Pacific Petroleum at Taylor, B.C., Union Oil at Prince George, B.C., and Royalite at Kamloops, B.C. will not be affected by the strike. But their daily capacity is only about 5,000 barrels a day each, small by comparison with the needs of the lower part of the province.

The union seeks a pay increase of $1 an hour over two years on current scales ranging from $2.95 to $4.05. If rejected an offer of between $1 and $3 cents an hour.

Canada Presents New Proposals On Nuclear Ban

GENEVA (GP) — Canada formally proposed today a worldwide exchange of seismicological data as a step toward an underground nuclear test-ban treaty.

A working paper submitted to the 17-nation disarmament conference by Canadian delegate George Ignatieff proposes that all countries submit via the secretary-general of the United Nations a complete list of their seismic stations.

Apart from the name and coordinates of the station, countries would be obliged to give full details of its operations, including all equipment.

Ignatieff called on other delegations to study Canada's proposal during a six-week break in the conference, which ends its current series of meetings today.

The working paper said: "The Canadian delegation believes that the problems of verifying a comprehensive test ban would decrease even though they may not be entirely resolved, if guaranteed access to original seismicological data could be assured within the framework of an organized and effective worldwide seismicological data exchange."

In reaction to the Canadian proposal, U.S. delegate Adrian Fisher said the United States is "quite ready to make available a list of seismic stations in the U.S. from which we would be ready to supply records in a worldwide exchange of data."

But, he added: "We have no basis or reason to believe that seismic data exchange would eliminate, on scientific and technical consideration, the need for on-site inspections. A number of seismic events would still remain even with seismic data exchange."

Forestry Industry Problems Discussed By IWA, Bosses

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks were to be held today between representatives of the International Woodworkers of America and John Billings, president of Forest Industries Relations, in the wake of closure and shift cancellations of three forest processing plants in the Greater Vancouver area.

Syd Thompson, president of the Vancouver IWA local, said the talks would include discussion of the union's request to re-open a two-year contract for an interim pay increase.

The union seeks a 12 per cent interim increase based on increased lumber prices and "spiralling costs of living."

Mr. Thompson said the graveyard shift at the Wellwood of Canada plant was cancelled Wednesday night because the plant ran out of material when men earlier refused to work overtime during the three-day holiday weekend. About 50 workers are involved.

Maintenance men refused to work overtime to repair a planer at Rayonier's Marpole plant, forcing the company to cancel today's shift of about 20 men while the machine is repaired on regular time.

The Richmond plywood mill owned by Crown Zellerbach is shut, affecting more than 50 men, as a result of plant grievances, Mr. Thompson said.

"I don't know what it's all about," he said Thursday night. After FIR, the industry's bargaining agent, rejected the IWA request to reopen the current contract, the IWA asked its members not to work overtime. "The industry operates on overtime," Mr. Thompson said.

Apollo Relaxes Before Return

HOUSTON (AP) — Their most dangerous moments behind them, the Apollo 10 astronauts continued to sail around the moon today, charting the surface for future manned missions and preparing to start the long journey home Saturday.

After a hectic day in which they put Americans on the threshold of a lunar landing, Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan took it relatively easy today.

They photographed potential landing sites for the Apollo 11 in July, studied lunar landmarks and perfected techniques for navigating in the moon's environment.

Mission control, noting their busy day Thursday, told the astronauts they could sleep until noon EDT if they desired. But they were up at 9:25 a.m.

"We all had about five to six hours pretty fair sleep," Cernan reported.

The only problem early today was a camera that had jammed Thursday. Cernan said the film refused to advance automatically. He used a pencil to do the job.

Apollo 10 ends its 2½-day lunar orbit period at 6:20 a.m. Saturday when the astronauts fire their engine behind the moon to start the 54-hour homeward journey. They will splashdown in the Pacific Ocean near Pago Pago at 12:53 p.m. Monday.

Full Production By Monday As Disputes Finally Solved

Strike-plagued Brenda Mines Ltd., will be back in full production Monday.

The $60,000,000 mine development site near Peachland, beset with a plumbers' union picket line since April 15 which some 400 construction workers refused to cross, was hit with another picket line by discharged pre-production workers Wednesday shortly after settlement of the plumbers' union dispute and removal of its pickets Tuesday.

A statement issued today by mine spokesman, Lory Fairfield, said an injunction against the illegally picketing pre-production workers was served by local bailiffs Wednesday, and "full construction operations should begin Monday."

The removal of the recent picket line by Tunnel and Rock Workers Union, local 168, and International Union of Operating Engineers, local 115, follows a week-long labor dispute with mine management and pre-production workers which ended finally in court injunction action.

The pit workers, who went on strike May 6, were issued a back-to-work ultimatum by the mine May 8, directing them to report for work May 12 or face discharge. Although a few men returned to their jobs by the specified time, an unconfirmed 50 workers were fired by the company who embarked on a recruitment program to get the working force back to full production level.

DISGRUNTLED

Disgruntled workers fired by the mine then set up their own picket line Wednesday, which some 400 construction workers refused to cross. With removal of the month-long plumbers' union picket line Saturday, the construction work force would have been free to return to their jobs. A report from the mine Wednesday stated some 20 to 30 cars and up to 40 men were blocking the road leading to the mine, with between five and 10 of that number being protesting pit workers, and the remainder construction men who were honoring the new line of defense.

Deemed unauthorized by the union, the picket line persisted Thursday in spite of an injunction to the British Columbia Supreme Court forbidding further picketing Wednesday, when the five picketers involved were served with the court injunction that resulted in final cessation of the labor strife at Brenda today.

Officers Named At DDF's Meet

Alvin J. Shaw, of Fredericton, N.B., was officially elected today as president of the Dominion Drama Festival national executive, as the business side of the DDF reaches its yearly climax here.

A new slate of officers, and several senior staff members were named at the DDF governor's court, a general meeting of festival personnel.

At press time, the court was still in session.

Vice-presidential posts went to Helen Smith, Victoria; Mrs. Ross Beharrell, Kingston (re-elected); Ted Fielder, Simco, Ont.; Walter Learning, Fredericton, N.B.; and Louis Fortin, Quebec City (re-elected).

Victor Amet, Montreal, was named treasurer.

Alvin Shaw, a professor at the University of New Brunswick, and a DDF veteran, takes over the president's position from Donald W. McGibbon, Toronto.

Mr. McGibbon and Laurier Melanson, executive secretary, who is retiring to take up studies in France, will be honored this week for their services to the national executive.

Also retiring is Mrs. Derek Hart Dyke, the administrative secretary. Her successor has not yet been made public.

Earlier this week, John Hill of Guelph was named assistant executive secretary and will take over the senior position when Mr. Melanson leaves for France.

Sergeant Steals Giant Plane

LONDON (AP) — A U.S. Air Force sergeant assigned to ground-crew duty stole a giant C-130 Hercules troop transport at dawn today and flew off alone to some undisclosed destination.

Air force headquarters at Ruislip said Sgt. Paul Meyer, 23, of Poquoson, Va., took off in the four-engined turboprop plane with nine hours fuel aboard.

The air force said Meyer has a wife and three children living in Poquoson. He came to England recently on temporary duty at the Mildenhall base, where the troop carriers arrive from the United States and are dispersed on missions around the globe.

Bennett Ready To Shut Mills Who Break Pollution Rulings

HOUSTON, B.C. (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett Thursday indicated his government is prepared to close pulp mills to enforce anti-pollution standards. At a corner-stone-laying ceremony to mark the first stage of the Bulkley Valley Forest Industries $100,000,000 integrated forest-products development here, the premier made his comments in a 10-minute speech.

He told eight officials of the project, backed by Bowater Corp. of England and Consolidated Bathurst Ltd. of the U.S., that Forests Minister Ray Wiliston is also responsible for controlling pollution—"and so you will have to control pollution."

"I expect... you will have to do more than anybody else in regard to pollution control," Mr. Bennett said.

"You wouldn't want the minister to shut down your plant, would you? But you know that will never be necessary."

Police Identify Body In Trunk

MONTREAL (CP) — Police today identified the body of a man found in the trunk of a rented car Wednesday night as that of Andre Masson, 28, of Montmagny, Que.

An autopsy performed by Dr. Jean Hould revealed that Masson had been shot once in the head and once in the back with 38-calibre bullets. Death occurred about 20 hours before the body was discovered.

Masson had been scheduled to appear in court Thursday on a charge of possessing an unregistered firearm.

Police said Masson had a criminal record of dealing in stolen goods in the Gaspé region. He was living in Montreal at the time of his murder.

His body was discovered on an east-end street after an anonymous telephone tip to police.

PGE Line Blocked

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway line north of Prince George was expected to be reopened today after a one-day blockage caused by a train derailment which in turn sparked a forest fire.

Thirteen cars of a 49-car freight train left the track near Kennedy, 100 miles north of Prince George. Six gas tank cars exploded and water bombers were used to extinguish the resulting fire.

It was only one of 131 forest fires reported burning Thursday in British Columbia, where the fire hazard remains high. More than 600 men are on the fire lines.

DRAMATICALLY SPEAKING

Adjudicator Judged Wrong About This

By BETHEL STEELE

"Voila... there you have it." So stated adjudicator Pierre Lefevre concerning Thursday night's DDF play... We are not yet born by Antonin Artaud as presented by Theatre 1 of Montreal.

Mr. Lefevre liked this presentation. He did not like Wednesday night's and I agreed with him on that score but I do not agree with him this time out Thursday night.

For once I am breaking a rule I have set myself concerning my coverage of adjudicators... to have no opinions and only to report verbatim.

Thursday was a day of controversy at DDF so we might as well continue the condition. There are three unforgivable sins in the theatre: first, to bore me; secondly, to preach to me and thirdly to play with undisciplined acting techniques. We are Not Yet Born did all three. I went to sleep Wednesday night I had the television documentary on the Duke of Alba to keep me awake and I liked the music as long as I plugged my ears.

Even so last night I purposely spent some time after the play in the company of young people... in the 'greenroom' and out of it... they all liked We Are Not Yet Born. I am afraid my generation gap has widened considerably in the last while and in the meantime I have interviewed and spent quite some time with a fine gentleman from Poland...

Dr. Adam Tarn of Calgary University. That is another story and one we will save for when all the shouting has subsided.

LEARNED MUCH I learned very very much from Dr. Tarn with the result I thought I had a better concept of what theatre should be all about... that is until Thursday night. I am bewildered all over again and I am really wondering what the DDF is all about.

To continue with Mr. Lefevre's adjudication... "Unfavourable adjudication... this is what we might have been waiting for. In a certain sense, everything I have been critical of has been achieved in a positive way. This is what the festival is about... I think. And the fact that I don't have to say what is the best enables me to say that I think this is perhaps the best. On every level here there is authority perhaps except from the point of view of the spoken word at times and from the point of view of the voices."

WELCOME NOT ROYAL

Kahn Tineta Horn, 27, wants justice for her people, the Mohawks near Quebec, and went to London to get it. The pretty, miniskirted young woman wants the British government to persuade Canada to let Indians cross the border into the United States without paying customs duty. However, her reception was hardly royal, as both the Queen and Prime Minister Wilson declined to meet her.

U.S. Loses Battle Of June 25 Poll Soon Starts In Manitoba

SAIGON (CP) — American war dead rose sharply to 430 last week from 180 the week before as North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces stepped up attacks presumably to mark the birthday of Ho Chi Minh, North Vietnam president, the U.S. military command said today.

A total of 2,185 other Americans were wounded and 1,107 of them needed hospital care during the week ending May 17. This compared with 1,225 wounded in the previous week, the command said.

Casualties also rose for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. U.S. officials claimed 5,686 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers died, compared with 3,038 the previous week. Military observers in Saigon said they believe the stepped-up offensive was to mark the birthday of Ho May 19.

DEAD TOPS 500,000
The figures released by the Americans today claimed North Vietnamese and Viet Cong dead had topped the 500,000 mark since the war started in 1961—with 500,452 reported killed.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that government casualties nearly tripled last week, to 527 killed compared with 182 the previous week. Since Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 79,345 South Vietnamese troops have been killed.

A spokesman for the U.S. command said the sharp increase in combat dead was "the result of a surge in the intensity of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong activity that began May 11, when enemy forces shelled more than 200 southern allied positions and made several heavy ground attacks on allied bases."

DDF DIARY

"Tonight's play was in a sense very symbolic of how the week is going because it is in reverse of theatrical form and it is using the theatre more than it has been used in the immediate past . . . getting away from the notion of mere entertainment."

"To achieve the aim of re-birth on tonight's stage they managed to use everything but without spoiling it. And this is marvelous. Because after all what is the final object of everything . . . of politics, religion and wanting to fight the world . . . it should be better if in the process of doing it we don't spoil any of it. It is very moving . . . a real lesson because in proposing this work to us . . . the young people and the inexperienced people all blend in together so beautifully."

"Everybody is there in the point of the exemplary use of the technical means of the theatre. But to single out any brilliance goes against the teamwork. There is an enormous amount of work and solicited invention, of a written text or a chosen poem . . . and there you have it . . . what to do . . . get up and think . . . get up and breathe."

"A new theatre is there . . . I did not say a new Canadian theatre . . . it is there for the begging . . . a new theatre if we but learn to work and learn to be humble . . . a freely consented discipline."

"A remarkable evening we have just had believe me. Volla."

"With apologies . . . might I ask Mr. Lefevre to keep his voice up since whenever he is undecided as to the true meaning of an English word he wishes to use or an English phrase he needs to use to express a certain idea his voice fades and invariably at that point someone coughs. Indeed the coughing symphony of these nightly audiences is really quite remarkable. And it would be the same if we were taking notes only."

"Oh . . . by the way . . . Tom Kerr was present last night all done out handsomely from Carnaby street. He also wonders what the DDF is all about."

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Court of Appeal Thursday ruled that evidence did not infer trafficking on a large scale, and reduced to 10 years the 15-year County Court sentence imposed on James Donald Cripps, convicted of possessing heroin for the purpose of trafficking.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Opening campaign salvos were fired minutes after Premier Walter Weir dissolved the Manitoba legislature Thursday and set Wednesday, June 25, as the date of a provincial general election.

The call sent members of the legislature scurrying, first out of the house to discuss the abrupt end to business, and then back inside to clean out their desks.

Mr. Weir, 40, told a news conference later he wants "a mandate for myself as premier and for the government."

R. W. Bend, 55, a veteran of Manitoba's last Liberal government 11 years ago and newly-elected party leader, labelled the election call "irresponsible."

A. R. (Russ) Pauley, 59, retiring New Democratic Party leader, said he was "disappointed at the timing" because of an abundance of unfinished business before the house.

CRITICIZES PREMIER
Mr. Pauley also faulted the premier because "he was well aware our party is engaged in a contest between persons aspiring to my mantle."

The NDP had scheduled its leadership convention for June 28-29 and now must move to hold it before the election. Ed Schreyer, 33, former MLA and now MP for Selkirk, and Sidney Green, 39, MLA for the north Winnipeg riding of Inkster, are in the running.

Mr. Weir told the news conference he wants to ensure his policies are wanted by Manitobans. He said he wants to test his stand on federal-provincial relations, taxation, agriculture and northern development, including the controversial Nelson River hydroelectric scheme.

Conservatives have been in power since June, 1958, with Duff Roblin as premier until Mr. Weir inherited his mantle at a party convention late in 1967.

The last provincial election was June 23, 1966. The party's only test under Mr. Weir came in byelections last February with Conservatives taking three of the four seats open.

At dissolution, standings in the 57-seat house were 31 Conservatives, 13 Liberals, 12 New Democrats and one Social Credit.

officials were turning back deserters and tipping off U.S. border officials at the same time. Mr. MacEachen denied this strongly.

The minister said the former policy, by leaving the decision in the hands of the border officers, was subjecting them to a "highly controversial issue."

From now on, applicants from anywhere would be judged solely on their merits. If they pass the points system, "met medical and security requirements," and have no criminal record, they would gain entry.

Mr. Thompson complained that Canada was encouraging entry of deserters who were flouting the law of their country. Canada should not do this in view of "a general breakdown of law and order in the world."

Ed Broadbent (NDP—Oshawa-Whitby) said he is glad the Canadian tradition of welcoming "political refugees"—it extended back to the days of the United Empire Loyalists—has been restored.

Both said Canadian servicemen can be shot for desertion and Mr. Whicher said deserters are "yellow." The Second World War veteran said he is "absolutely opposed" to the policy.

"By saying this, I'll be able to go back to my riding and look the Royal Canadian Legion in the eye," Mr. Whicher said.

He said Mr. MacEachen had succumbed to pressure from "college types." College boys had dramatized the situation by posing as deserters and seeking entry.

U.S. Military Deserters Offered New Ottawa Deal

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S. military deserters Thursday were offered "no-questions-asked" admission to Canada in a new policy announced to the Commons by Immigration Minister Allan MacEachen.

Desertion, "actual or potential," no longer is a factor in determining admissibility to this country, Mr. MacEachen said.

He added that during the last 15 months, there has been no sign of any substantial influx of U.S. deserters. Only 123 within Canada had applied for landed immigrant status and 19 were refused.

He did not say how many were refused entry at border points, where immigration officers have had the discretion to give such refusal.

A storm over this situation forced a review of the policy, which Mr. MacEachen described as "ambivalent," and led to the latest announcement.

It won't be a surprise if the NDP, but Liberal back-bencher Ross Whicher (Bruce) and Conservative spokesman Robert Thompson (Red Deer) were critical.

Both said Canadian servicemen can be shot for desertion and Mr. Whicher said deserters are "yellow." The Second World War veteran said he is "absolutely opposed" to the policy.

"By saying this, I'll be able to go back to my riding and look the Royal Canadian Legion in the eye," Mr. Whicher said.

He said Mr. MacEachen had succumbed to pressure from "college types." College boys had dramatized the situation by posing as deserters and seeking entry.

SAIGON (CP) — American war dead rose sharply to 430 last week from 180 the week before as North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces stepped up attacks presumably to mark the birthday of Ho Chi Minh, North Vietnam president, the U.S. military command said today.

A total of 2,185 other Americans were wounded and 1,107 of them needed hospital care during the week ending May 17. This compared with 1,225 wounded in the previous week, the command said.

Casualties also rose for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. U.S. officials claimed 5,686 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers died, compared with 3,038 the previous week. Military observers in Saigon said they believe the stepped-up offensive was to mark the birthday of Ho May 19.

DEAD TOPS 500,000
The figures released by the Americans today claimed North Vietnamese and Viet Cong dead had topped the 500,000 mark since the war started in 1961—with 500,452 reported killed.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that government casualties nearly tripled last week, to 527 killed compared with 182 the previous week. Since Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 79,345 South Vietnamese troops have been killed.

A spokesman for the U.S. command said the sharp increase in combat dead was "the result of a surge in the intensity of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong activity that began May 11, when enemy forces shelled more than 200 southern allied positions and made several heavy ground attacks on allied bases."

U.S. Military Deserters Offered New Ottawa Deal

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S. military deserters Thursday were offered "no-questions-asked" admission to Canada in a new policy announced to the Commons by Immigration Minister Allan MacEachen.

Desertion, "actual or potential," no longer is a factor in determining admissibility to this country, Mr. MacEachen said.

He added that during the last 15 months, there has been no sign of any substantial influx of U.S. deserters. Only 123 within Canada had applied for landed immigrant status and 19 were refused.

He did not say how many were refused entry at border points, where immigration officers have had the discretion to give such refusal.

A storm over this situation forced a review of the policy, which Mr. MacEachen described as "ambivalent," and led to the latest announcement.

Short Takes

The warning signs are up that shoplifters will henceforth be receiving stiffer penalties in the courts. And about time. It is now estimated that shoplifters are costing the public some $375 million a year. Costing the public because the retail outlets which actually lose the stuff must take their losses into consideration when fixing their prices and so the public pays for the shoplifters' fun and games.

A Montreal judge has said "a powerful deterrent is needed to change their thinking and stop this pilfering." And several Ottawa judges have indicated they are considering jail terms even for first offenders. It is an odd commentary on present day society that many people do not consider shoplifting to be actually stealing. These people, however, should change their thinking as there are indications that the temper of the public is changing and no longer will shoplifting be considered a game or a joke.

Retailing of food and non-food products is on the brink of a dynamic change in which every level will be reshaped by a breakdown of traditional lines of demarcation. Everybody, apparently, is going to take a crack at everybody else's job. Food producers will move into non-food lines on a tremendous scale. Non-food producers will move into food on a tremendous scale. The food retailer will move into non-foods in just as great force while non-food retailers will do the reverse. It looks as though the old general store is on its way back. It is being projected that by 1973 from 15 to 25 per cent of total food processing, including meat, will be controlled by non-food companies. And by the same year the major food processors will account for from 15 to 50 per cent of their total volume in non-foods.

We're fairly tolerant—at least we think we are—but the current practice of issuing two-language releases and printing on packages with the French always first is getting us down. It would not be so annoying were it done occasionally, or even half the time. But it is such a common practice that it would appear that somebody, somewhere has laid down an edict. Even folders are designed to give French the primary spot. What is the rule? Is there a law? Even using the old tried and true alphabet gauge, E

The Flaming Forest

Everyone in British Columbia—and that means every living man, woman and child in this province—should be concerned with the forest fire problem. And that means that everyone in this province should be interested in Fred McClement's new book, "The Flaming Forest" which has just been published by McClelland and Stewart.

McClement is the chap whose two books, Anvil of the Gods and It Doesn't Matter Where You Sit, excited wide comment on the dangers of modern air travel. His book on forest fires will cause equal comment.

It is an enthralling—and frightening book, tracing the entire history of forest fires on this continent, with particular attention to Canada. He describes major disasters in which whole communities were wiped out in a matter of minutes, frequently with loss of life. He describes the slow and painful development of modern methods of fire prevention and forest management; the saga of the early bush pilots. The railways, the lumber mills, the tourists and the contributions they made to the destruction of untold millions of dollars in our forests are pinpointed. And he proves, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that the forest fire can be as great a scourge today as it was a hundred years ago; that it remains one of the greatest hazards to the prosperity of our country and the beauty of our landscape.

He gives marks to the B.C. government for its intelligent handling of conservation practices but that does not mean that every person who sets foot in the forests of this province should not be constantly aware of the danger their mere presence creates.

The Flaming Forest is a scary book and for that reason it is timely. It should be read by everyone, if not for the information it contains, for the enthralling story it tells. It is a book which, once started, it is difficult to lay aside.—rpm

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

Mexico Still Has A Problem And It Lies Over U.S. Border

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "Poor Mexico," Porfirio Diaz once sighed, "so far from God and so near the United States."

The end-of-the-century president-dictator was reflecting on the weighty influences exerted by the giant neighbor. Since then U.S. political, economic and cultural influences have increased many times.

A few years ago, another president, Adolfo Lopez Mateos, was asked what he considered Mexico's major problem.

"The United States," he answered.

The reasoning behind this view brings a multitude of explanations from those who believe in it. But a lot of folks here, Mexicans and Americans, while acknowledging the realities of the U.S. presence, regard the two presidential affirmations as oversimplifications of the real and varied problems plaguing this northernmost of Latin-American republics.

In many aspects—public services, transportation, highways, hotels—Mexico appears as far ahead of most Latin American countries as the United States is ahead of Mexico. But things are not as bright, and promising as some economists paint them.

INCOMES DIFFER

Those who live well in Mexico, some say, are politicians; generals or foreigners.

Jorge Renero, 22, graduated with honors recently from Mexico's Polytechnic Institute as a mechanical technician. The only job available, with an American company, pays him $12 weekly for six days a week. His uncle, a medical doctor, moonlights in three different jobs to make the equivalent of $228 a month.

The groping for causes has focused partly on the American presence because it is abundant and influential. It seems likely that anti-U.S. sentiment here is less than in some other countries. Still, many Mexicans believe their country has become, in the age of decolonization, a colony of the United States. Some call it Gringolandia.

Mexico has ties with both Washington and Havana and occupies a position of prestige in the hemisphere. Whatever happens here can influence other Latin American republics. This is why Mexico watchers here—American and other foreigners—are sharpening their vigil as the nation heads for a major electoral test next year.

PARTY STILL STRONG

Despite signs of a decline in its popularity in recent years, the Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), the official political machine that has been governing Mexico since 1929, seems certain to win the 1970 presidential elections. It's numerically the largest and controls all the elements needed to win.

Political observers believe the manner in which the PRI fashions its victory will show what to expect in the way of democratic government in the future.

The party's decline has been marked by electoral defeats at municipal level in key states. When it lost two elections in the state of Baja California in 1967 the party machine nullified the results.

This and the way it has been reacting forcefully to all opposition notably the student protest demonstrations, last fall, have aroused fears in some quarters that the party might revert to muscular pressures to cover any weaknesses.

What has happened to Mexico's ruling party may indicate what becomes of political machines long in power. The revolutionaries of two generations ago are today's well-heeled oligarchs. The nation's gravest problems are viewed by political students here as a product of "typical oligarchic insensitivity" to the demands of the times.

Under the PRI, Mexico achieved a political stability that nourished one of the most dramatic social, economic and cultural advances Latin America has known in the last half century.

There was a robust 7.1-per cent increase in last year's gross national product. But to sustain this growth, the nation has had to borrow heavily. To finance its foreign debt Mexico pays 35.4 cents of every dollar it earns abroad.

Mild price controls over some basic commodities and a steadily rising production have kept inflation at one of the lowest rates in the hemisphere, under four per cent a year. This has solidified the peso's value on the international market.

The population has grown to 50,000,000 from 16,500,000 in 1930. As in the rest of Latin America, the birthrate is highest among the underprivileged so that poverty, as one sociologist puts it, is the leading national product.

Mexico City mirrors the disparity in incomes. Of its economically active inhabitants, 81.5 per cent earn between $24 and $120 a month while 1.5 per cent have incomes upward of $800.

The Mexican Centre of Educational Studies says that while the national literacy level is rated at 75 per cent, 65 out of every 100 Mexicans are "functional illiterates," those who learned to read and write but forgot it through disuse.

MOST ARE YOUNG
More than half the city's total population, or 3,705,777, are under 19 years of age. In terms of future job seekers alone, the figure is viewed with some alarm here.

Mexico City's growth is largely the product of migration from rural areas where life is often harsher.

The Mexican agrarian reform program is the oldest in Latin America, but after a half-century of land distribution there are more landless Mexicans than ever before.

Even those with land complain of a lack of credit and technical assistance and low market prices. The government recently has begun a program of crop subsidies and other forms of farm aid.

The often lively and colorful Mexican national character and the majestic beauty of the land a truly beautiful camouflage backwardness so that poverty may not seem as harsh as elsewhere.

But a pervasive want is everywhere. At the cheapest building seats, at the outdoor band concerts, in the countless churches and cathedrals and at primitive, pagan rites.

In the faded tourist resort of Acapulco, poverty blends into the shadows of green hillsides, overlooking a blue-green bay and the walled, expensive villas owned by foreigners.

"The government effectively controls most of the news media without seeming to. There's no censorship but the government, sensitive to criticism, has many subtle pressure sources at its disposal. The reader and listener get mainly a diet of stories extolling Mexico, Mexicans and the revolution."

A new law calling for heavy taxes on radio and television advertising revenues has been criticized by some as an attempt to increase controls over these media.

WANT BETTER DEAL

All this adds up to increasing restiveness among the "socially aware" classes. The business community claims that Mexico, as a billion-dollar-a-year customer of the United States, deserves preferential treatment from Washington for raw materials and products.

At a lower and more explosive level Mexico's youth—85 per cent of the population is under 24 years of age—are clamoring for change from systems they consider antiquated, inefficient and corrupt.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Students' Power Not Like Wisdom

By PHILIP DEANE,
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Three thousand students, some in very expensive cars, descend on a little North Dakota town and then proceed to behave like hoodlums. They set an old building on fire, dismantled the fire brigade's equipment. It was not all of them who committed the outrage. But most of those not actually taking part in the stupid brutalities, just watched and did nothing to protect the little town in which they were guests.

Without the restraints society imposes, the instincts and emotions revealed by this sickening episode are the same which caused pogroms in European ghettos, lynchings in Dixie or even the burning of a Vietnamese village "suspected" of harboring guerrillas. The town of Zap saw what callousness, utter selfishness and exhibitionism can do. The town of Zap saw individualism unleashed and the sight was both terrifying and nauseating.

Individualism, in this context, does not mean doing something by yourself: it means a belief that what matters most is what you want. Individualism is quite compatible with addition to fads or the herd behavior of a mob in which everyone does "his own thing." It turns out no one has a monopoly on this "thing"; it is very much the same thing for most, but the motivation is individualistic: each individual participating in mob violence as in Zap, would say that his motivation was individualistic, a desire to do what he wants, regardless of social restraints.

Freud had a profound influence against restraints which, he said, made us all psychotic. His teachings influenced the educational establishment very deeply—influenced parents too—so that we have been through a long period of permissiveness for the young.

Permissiveness is, of course, only part of the explanation for what makes young men act like savages. Young men often have acted like savages, it seems to be a part of being young. I don't much believe in the excuse that they are revolted by the terrible world they live in and the possibility of being killed in a nuclear war.

Young men have faced the possibility of being killed in previous generations; they lived in societies which were at least as unjust and as hypocritical as ours, and which were condemned for so being by the intellectuals of the past. The U.S. has fought unjust wars before—in the Philippines, for instance and against Mexico. So the hydrogen bomb and the "rotteness" of the society cannot be accepted as the only even the major explanation for what the young do in a place like Zap. Permissive upbringing and schooling must bear the blame, that plus the great increase in power for the young—power to transport themselves anywhere they want, power to spend, power to see their posturing and that of their peers through television. Increased power without commensurate increase in wisdom and the result is Zap.

CANADA'S STORY

Explorers Quest Completed By CPR

By BOB BOWMAN

In "other events on May 23" below it will be noted that this is the anniversary of one of Jacques Cartier's voyages to Canada, and also of Champlain arriving at Quebec as representative of Cardinal Richelieu. Both Cartier and Champlain were trying to find the short route from Europe to the Far East. It might be said that this mission was accomplished on May 23, 1887, when the first CPR train steamed into Vancouver, drawn by Engine 374 with a painting of Queen Victoria on its headlight.

The route had been completed to Port Moody in 1885, but General Manager William Van Horne had it extended into Vancouver because berths could be built there for big ships that would cross the Pacific and complete the quests of the great explorers.

Vancouver was being rebuilt from the ruins of a fire that wiped out the community the previous year. Nevertheless the citizens, dressed in their finest, flocked to the waterfront streets and began hearing the whistle of the train shortly after noon. They were shouting "Here she comes, here she comes." It seemed unbelievable that the train had left Montreal only five days ago.

There were suitable greetings in the new station expressed by Mayor M. A. McLean to Harry Abbott, general superintendent of the CPR's Pacific division. There were signs on the side of the train Ocean to Ocean and

Our National Highway. That night there was a great celebration with a torchlight procession and concerts by city bands. It was the beginning of Vancouver's great progress from a tiny village to Canada's third largest city.

The old engine 374 is now in Kitsilano Park, the delight of children who swarm over it most days of the year. It would have astonished Cartier, Champlain, Mackenzie, Fraser and many others as well.

OTHER EVENTS ON MAY 23:
1541—Cartier sailed from St. Malo with three ships carrying colonists to Canada.

1623—Champlain returned to Quebec as lieutenant for Cardinal Richelieu.

1797—David Thompson left Hudson's Bay Company to join Nor-Westers.

1853—Canadian Steam Navigation Company formed to provide service to Britain.

1873—Act passed establishing North West Mounted Police and Council of Northwest Territories.

1880—Prince Leopold began tour of Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto but activities curtailed owing to health.

1890—First celebration of Empire Day.

1918—Federal parliament passed votes for women.

1929—First non-stop flight from Winnipeg to Edmonton took 6 hours 48 minutes.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

A FRIEND REMEMBERS

Sir: As I read your paper I am filled with gladness that I knew such a man as Bertram Chichester. I believe not many knew of the constant help this man was in our community.

I can't count how many times Mr. Chichester came out to show his nature films free of charge so some struggling cub pack or scout troop could charge viewers thereby accumulating some money for much needed equipment.

If Mr. Chichester had lived to be 150 years of age he would never have been old. His mind was full of questions for each new day he was courageous, adventurous, kindly and wise.

The thought also crosses my mind that I have been fortunate enough to have lived in Kelowna and to have known two other great gentlemen. One being Oliver Jackson, who also did so much for young people in our area and Indian people also.

So many cub packs and scout troops needing a plaque or token pool have been surprised to have their money turned down when they went to pay for the article.

Also I remember two years ago when costumes were needed for a spring musical production put on by combined elementary schools. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Jackson made many of them of no charge. Cub packs, scout troops and school children visit Mr. Jackson's museum at no charge. Adults pay a very nominal fee—this in an age when businessmen are scheming to attract young people's money.

There is another wonderful, wise and kindly gentleman, who has enriched so many lives with his beautiful philosophy of living and who's stories of early Kelowna will long be remembered by anyone who has visited the Kelowna museum when it was on Water Street.

History was related with so much affection and patience by C. W. Walrod. Who will ever forget the warmth of that unheated building. Children were treated as special guests (questions answered and as a special reward were shown through the vault where the really special items were kept.

I am so glad I have known these three remarkable people.

Where To Find Book For Diabetic's Recipes

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has diabetes. The doctor says do this and do that, which we try, but we still can't understand the whys of this disease.

Can you tell me where to get a cook book of cakes, pies, and desserts using artificial sweeteners? I have had no luck finding one in book stores.—Mrs. L.E.W.

Diabetes—one of the most widespread chronic diseases we have to combat—isn't too hard to understand, basically. Although related problems can be very complicated indeed.

Here it is in a nutshell. The human body has to produce insulin in the pancreas in order to use up sugar, which represents energy, in the blood.

When not enough insulin is available, that's diabetes. The answer: Either give extra insulin, by injection, or use the newer "diabetes pills," which will reduce the sugar level in cases that are not too severe, or in very mild cases, change the diet so the patient doesn't get more sugar than he can handle.

Usually a combination of diet plus either insulin or pills is necessary.

Remember that it isn't just ordinary table sugar. You also have to calculate the amount of natural sugar in fruits and other foods. And starches are quickly turned into sugar in the system, and protein is converted similarly, although more slowly and in smaller degree.

So that's why total food intake is important, besides eliminating ordinary table sugar entirely.

Peachland Plans Set For Big May Day

PEACHLAND (Special)—The program for the Ventures-sponsored Peachland May Day celebrations Saturday is complete. This celebration, that in years gone by was an annual event, has been revived for 1969 by the Ventures, who have solicited help from most of the local organizations in putting on this show.

The celebration will start with a parade down Beach Avenue starting at the Chamber of Commerce tourist booth, south of Peachland, and dispersing at the Community Hall and the school grounds.

From 1:30 on games and the concession stand will be operating on the grounds, and tea will be available in the hall for adults. At 4 p.m. queen candidates will be introduced and the girl voted for will be crowned Peachland May Queen for 1969. After these ceremonies, prizes will be awarded for the fish derby. At 4:30 a ball game will be played by local players. At 5:30 until 7 p.m. pancake supper will be served by the curling club.

The big day will end with an all-ages dance in the Community Hall from 9 to 12. With the new queen leading the grand march to be held at 9:30 p.m. One other entertainment of this dance will be a floor show staged by local talent at 11 p.m.

TEEN PLANS
Arrangements to sponsor a pet parade at the celebrations were made at the Teen Town meeting in Peachland. It was decided to have the children entering march at the end of the big parade which will start at 1 p.m. at the tourist booth. Prizes to be awarded at the school grounds directly after the parade.

Reports were given on the recent projects put on by the Teen Town, the car wash and the slave day. These were both "very successful." A vote of thanks was given to all the residents who made these projects so successful, and special thanks were given to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Davies for allowing the teens to use their office for headquarters.

Another meeting will be called to complete plans for the pet parade.

Bowlers Visit Rutland

RUTLAND (Special)—Seven teams of Calgary Youth Bowlers Association members came to Rutland recently for a bowling tournament, and to spend a few days in the Okanagan Valley. These young stars were from nine to 18 years of age, in bantam, junior and senior divisions, and included boys and girls teams, and mixed teams of either two boys and three girls or three girls and two boys. The Calgary group had travelled to Burnaby last year, and stated that they had taken 30 of the 35 trophies in competition there. This failed to daunt the Rutland teams however, and they succeeded in winning 23 of the 40 cups up for competition. The Calgary players looked very impressive in their red shirts and white stonewash hats. They extended an invitation to eight teams from Rutland to attend a tournament in Calgary next spring.

Word has been received that Rutland placed three bowlers in the Western Canada Championships. In the peewee division Susan Metzgar, eight years of age, bowled 53 pins per game over her average, for an 111 average. In the bantams, Karline Charlton, 9, bowled 53 pins a game over her average for a 156 average. Bantam-Douglas Runzer, 11 years of age, bowled 55 pins over his average per game, for a 201 average. Needless to say the Rutland Bowling Association—and the residents as a whole—are proud of these three western Canada champions.

Two Members Of Dr. Knox IODE Receive Twenty-Five-Year Pins

Twenty-five year pins were presented to Mrs. H. N. Williams and Mrs. H. H. Johnston at the regular meeting of the Dr. W. J. Knox Chapter IODE. The meeting was held at the Westside home of Mrs. W. A. C. Wilson.

The report of the delegate to Provincial was given by Miss Rosemary King who gave highlights of work done on a provincial level during the past year. Mrs. D. J. Kerr who also attended the annual meeting received the congratulations of members on being elected a Vice President of the provincial body. Mrs. C. D. Cliley described a few of the social events at which delegates had been entertained.

Mrs. R. W. Ross reported on correspondence she had had with the adopted school at Telegraph Creek. The Chapter is looking into providing this school with some piece of playground equipment.

Plans were outlined by Mrs. D. J. Kerr for the coffee party at which Mrs. D. W. McGibbon would be guest of honor. Mrs.

McGibbon is a former National President of IODE and is visiting Kelowna with her husband who is the President of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Two new members were welcomed into the Chapter, Mrs. Bruce Winsby and Mrs. Fred Chamberlain.

The report of the Superfluity Shop showed an increase in sales for April and Mrs. H. Trembley and her committee were greatly complimented for the "new look" at the Shop. Mrs. Charles Pettman reported on the last meeting of the White Cane Club at which she was assisted by Mrs. Pegi Lee and Mrs. Flo Simons in serving the lunch.

A letter was read from the B.C. Tuberculosis Society expressing regret that the Chapter was finding it necessary to give up the sponsorship of the annual Christmas Seal Drive. Commendation was extended on the excellent campaign just finished with an increase of 38 per cent over the previous year.

Mrs. F. L. Fitzpatrick invited members to her home for the June meeting.

ANN LANDERS

Performing Children Can Be A Bore

Dear Ann Landers: Some new friends invited us over for an evening of bridge. When we arrived at 7:30 we were asked if we'd like to hear their 12-year-old play her piano recital piece. Of course we politely said "yes." The "piece" turned out to be three pieces, and my husband was visibly annoyed.

After the piano recital we were told that the younger boy wanted to do something to entertain us, also. So we sat and listened to him rattle off the fifty states, "Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California..." Then came the Gettysburg address — "Four score and seven years ago..." Next he named all the cabinet members and their posts — "Mr. William Rogers, Secretary of State; Mr. Melvin Laird, Secretary of Defense; Mr. David Kennedy, Secretary of the Treasury..."

Then the six-year-old came in wearing toe slippers and a fairy costume. Her mother played the piano while she danced for what seemed like forever.

At 8:30 they finally brought out the cards. By that time my husband was so out-of-sorts he played a terrible game and his disposition was foul. When we got home he told me never to accept another invitation from those people. He ordered me not to ask them to our place ever again. I like the woman very much. Ann. What should I do? — Tramped Ace

Dear Ace: See the woman during the afternoon. A husband has the right to veto couples he does not enjoy. (And so does a wife.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to you because it is easier to write about an embarrassing problem than to talk to a person face to face.

I am a 16-year-old girl who is considered attractive, good company and I guess you'd call me popular. That's my problem. I'm too popular. The word has gotten around that I'm a pushover and it's true. I just can't say no.

The result is that I end up sleeping with every boy on the very first date.

The weird part is I don't get anything out of it. And it seems to be getting worse. I got a bigger thrill out of being kissed in the swimming pool when I was 14 than I got from going to bed with the captain of the soccer team last night.

Is there something wrong with me? My best friend says this is not normal and I need professional help. If you say she is right I'll tell Mom I am having tension headaches and I want to go for counseling. Please advise me. — Yea Girl

Dear Girl: Your friend is right. I urge you to get help at once. Promiscuity can be highly dangerous not only physically but emotionally. Get going and good luck.

Confidential To Trying To Get Ahead: Keep trying, fella. You need one. Sending the boss a copy of that letter was a gross violation of confidence. Now is no time to ask me if it's a good idea.

B.C. BOYS' CHOIR TO SING IN KELOWNA

The British Columbia Boys' Choir will be singing in the Kelowna Community Theatre May 30 at 8 p.m. The choir, which has received high praise from the Vancouver newspaper critics, was founded by Donald Forbes in 1968, and it is open to any boy in the province who can pass the audition tests. The 40 boys in the group practice eight to 10 hours a week to achieve the high standards for which the choir is noted.

The CBC at present is considering following the choir to Europe for a six-part program, for a series of cathedral concerts. Canadian embassies in various European Countries have pledged their support for this project.

PRINCE PHILIP WAS THE STAR

VIENNA (AP) — The cast of the Vienna State Opera gave Prince Phillip a gentle ribbing in German while Queen Elizabeth sat beside him occasionally whispering for a translation.

The royal couple, on an official visit to Austria, attended a performance of Johann Strauss's Die Fledermaus Tuesday night.

Philip, who speaks fluent German, laughed when British tenor Murray Dickie, who sang the role of Prince Orlofsky, explained why he did not comprehend something.

"I am a prince and I do not understand so fast," Dickie said.

The Queen, who speaks no German, turned to the prince for an explanation.

Later, baritone Eberhard Waechter, who played the role of Eisenstein, told Dickie: "You are a prince? I had a different idea of what a prince looks like."

Dickie is short and overweight.

Dickie replied: "We cannot all be tall and handsome."

Recognizing the obvious reference to Philip, the audience applauded.

Burton Picks Canadian Girl

LONDON (CP) — Canadian actress Genevieve Bujold, who already has made a name for herself in French movies, is to play the leading role in a new British film opposite Richard Burton.

The part is that of Anne Bolwyn in Anne of a Thousand Days. Burton, who plays King Henry VIII, picked the 23-year-old Montreal actress after seeing her in an avant-garde French film called Isabelle.

Seiji's Farewell An Applauded Event

TORONTO (CP) — Seiji Ozawa conducted his final concert with the Toronto Symphony Tuesday and the audience responded with numerous curtain calls.

Mr. Ozawa, 34, conductor for four years, becomes music director of the San Francisco Symphony in 1970 after guest-conducting in Europe and North America. His successor is Karel Ancerl, former conductor and musical director of the Czechoslovakia Philharmonic Orchestra.

Mr. Ozawa led the orchestra in Mozart's Piano Concerto K488, Johann Strauss' overture to the Gypsy Baron and Richard Strauss' Rosenkavalier Suite.

Mr. Nasty Not So Nasty At All As Valley Teens Well Know

Mr. Nasty really isn't a bad guy.

In fact the name is more catchy than nasty.

Mr. Nasty actually is Kelowna's Farley Smith, well known to teens and other young people for his dance promotions throughout the Valley.

The Mr. Nasty tag and perhaps the hard soul sound is new, but the rest remains, Smith wants to provide teenagers with good, clean fun and entertainment.

He began during the holiday weekend, with promotions each of Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. There were indications the authorities wanted to close the Sunday midnight effort before it ever got off the ground, but Smith asked for a chance to prove the dance could be operated without trouble and he proved his point.

He hopes to continue the promotions throughout the summer, with two dates, one private, set for this weekend.

Friday night at the Kelowna Secondary School, a new group, The Moses Company out of Vernon, will entertain KSS graduates, starting at 9 p.m. This dance is open to grads and their guests only.

Saturday night the rest of the action set gets a chance to inspect and hear the Moses Company, beginning at 9:30 p.m. at the Aquatic.

A portion of Saturday's proceeds will go to the Okanagan College Ruby team. Mr. Smith indicated this week he hopes to promote the dances throughout the summer and that they will get bigger.

The soul shows will be just one of the many activities planned for Kelowna and district throughout the summer, for people of all ages.

Gone are the days when youngsters, particularly teenagers, could say, "there's nothing to do."

One TV Station Wants Messer

TORONTO (CP) — Doug Gale, program manager of CHCH-TV, said Tuesday the independent Hamilton station is negotiating with Don Messer and hopes to carry his country music program next season.

Mr. Gale said a decision from Mr. Messer is expected this week. CHCH wants to market the show to other stations.

"I'm never optimistic until I get a signed contract," Mr. Gale said. "There are no points of contention in the negotiations."

THE CBC recently announced that the Messer show will be dropped next season after 10 years on the public network. The decision brought a flood of protests.

Saxophonist 'Bean' Dies At Age Of 64

NEW YORK (AP) — Coleman Hawkins, whose tenor saxophone solos delighted three generations of jazz fans, died Monday. He was 64.

The musician, who had been ill for some time, died of bronchial pneumonia at Wickersham Hospital.

Hawkins, known to his friends as "Bean," had continued to perform until a month before his death.

His career, which began when he joined Mamie Smith's Jazz Hounds at the age of 18, spanned several eras.

They'll Continue Tobacco Ads

MONTREAL (CP) — Radio station CFOX said Wednesday it plans to continue cigarette advertising but also will broadcast anti-cigarette commercials if it can get them.

In an editorial, the station said it will carry free of charge one anti-cigarette commercial for each three cigarette commercials, provided "the Canadian Cancer Society or any other such organization will send us the suitable commercials."

CFOX said banning cigarette advertising from radio and television only will not be effective.

"We would support the government if it banned all cigarette advertising in all media. But as long as cigarette manufacturers have a legal right to advertise their product, we think they have a right to use radio and television as well as other media."

Oscar Awards Go Into Reverse

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Editors of the Harvard Lampoon, university humor magazine, have chosen The Lion in Winter, which won three Oscars, as the worst movie of the year.

Barbra Streisand won the Lampoon's Natalie Wood Award as worst actress of the year for Funny Girl. And Sidney Poitier in For Love of Ivy captured the magazine's Kirk Douglas Award for worst actor.

The magazine always gives its Arrested Development Award to Jerry Lewis but Lewis didn't make a picture this year so the prize went to the perennial runnerup, Dean Martin.

BEGAN AT STRATFORD

Canadian born William Shatner, star of the television series Star Trek, began his serious acting career when he joined the Stratford Shakespearean Festival as an understudy.

NO STRANGER

CBC radio personality James Bannerman has been a CBC contributor for 20 years.

Hollywood Walks A Lonely Path In Showing World Its Fights

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movies surely must be the only industry which would allow a reporter to overhear and then report to the world the intrigue, backbiting and infighting that goes on within executive sanctums.

Such an exercise is The Studio (Farrar, Straus, Giroux, $5.95) by John Gregory Dunne. As a close-up no-punches-pulled view of the film world, this book is the most incisive piece of reporting since Lillian Ross skewered MGM in writing about the debacle of Red Badge of Courage.

The Studio already has caused one actor to punch a casting director in the nose over statements made in the book. More reaction will doubtless ensue, perhaps from stockholders inquiring, "Is this any way to run a studio?"

The studio is 20th Century-Fox, which is proclaimed the most successful in Hollywood. Indeed, the plant appears to be thriving under the stewardship of Richard Zanuck, production boss and son of the company's head man, Darryl F. Zanuck. About the worst thing Dunne writes about young Zanuck is that he bites his finger nails.

FOLLOWS FILM

The Red Badge of Courage of Dunne's tale is Doctor Doolittle, an $18,000,000 production with an air of disaster about it. The film is followed through its tepid Minneapolis preview to the Hollywood premier, attended by Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan, Sophie the Seal, Gub-Gub the Pig, and Sonny and Cher.

The book also offers inside views of a day-to-day operations at a major studio. Such as:

When Rex Harrison balked at playing Doctor Doolittle, Christopher Plummer was hired at $300,000. Then Harrison changed his mind, and Plummer had to be paid off.

The studio could have saved several million dollars by filming Hello, Dolly! in Europe. But Richard Zanuck vetoed the plan because Dolly was "a piece of hard-core Americana—you shoot that in Rome and the unions back here will raise such a stink you'll have a hard time getting over it."

With his career in a tailspin because of a string of mindless comedies, Tony Curtis was considering a television series about detectives, but he changed his face with putty, rearranged his hair and sold himself to dubious studio officials as The Boston Strangler.

The studio was asked by Reagan's office to lend the state a lawyer to work for the utilities commission during summer holidays. Richard Zanuck agreed to do so, saying, "It never hurts to have a friend in Sacramento."

By TOM CARNEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Some 21 years ago a young undergraduate at the University of Alberta was caught by the romance of the early West. It's obvious that the student, William Rodney, then set himself a personal goal: a desire to separate fact from fancy on the life and times of John George (Kootenai) Brown (1839-1916).

The color of Kootenai Brown's life had attracted journalistic attention before. The newspaper British Columbian, of New Westminster, mentioned him in 1865 and Kootenai was repeatedly cited in the Fort McLeod Gazette before the end of the century.

References to Brown continued through the years and more recently Kootenai's life won space in such magazines as Time and Maclean's. In 1967 the National Film Board production Helicopter Canada credited Kootenai with mixing molasses with kerosene and serving it as a cocktail to Stoney Indians.

Too often over the years legend had bred legend; myth began taking on more reality than existence. The truth about Kootenai Brown was fragmented, buried in newspaper files; lost in the records of Cariboo mining camps; mislaid and confused with other mementoes of lives long past scattered across the Prairies; piled in Ottawa archives or the shelves of historical societies in the United States; included among military records in London, and even engraved on rock in a churchyard in County Clare, Ireland.

WORKED IN PARK

In the late 1940s Rodney had eased the financial burden of undergraduate study by working summers in Waterton Lakes National Park, where Kootenai's remains lie buried between the graves of his first wife, the pretty and gay Metis Olive, and his second wife, the silent, omnipresent Cree Isabelle who "seemed more of a servant" to one observer.

As Rodney, now professor of history at Royal Roads Military College on Vancouver Island, went on to academic and literary success with post-graduate study at Cambridge and London, his infatuation mellowed into a sincere desire to know more of the early pioneer who had ended his life in 1916 as a conservation ranger in the Waterton Lakes park.

And as time permitted in the next 16 years, Rodney turned his scholastic and literary talents to the long pursuit of unravelling the life of the man named Kootenai Brown, a pursuit which led him across Western Canada and the U.S. to the British Isles, ferreting out traces of a man long dead.

At times it must have been a confounding task: Rodney was attempting to create a portrait of a man with many faces, a man who was so accustomed to adaptation and change that at the age of 74 he learned to use a typewriter because it would ease his administrative duties and give him more time to patrol on horseback, an aged and romantic figure with long white hair and a fringed jacket.

Author Rodney never sacrifices fact in favor of romance in telling the story of Kootenai Brown; indeed, as many historians have discovered, good presentation of fact often includes romance enough for anyone.

So it was with Kootenai,

KELOWNA DAILY COURIER, MAY 22, 1969 PAGE 7A

who himself was well educated in Ireland and England, and had been granted a commission in the British Army in 1857 to start his varied career. He served in India, but on the return home of his regiment left Britain, lured away by tales of fortune in the gold fields of British Columbia.

Travelling with his friend Arthur Wellesley Vowell, who later became a historic figure himself in B.C., Brown was marooned on the Isthmus of Panama and later found himself broke in San Francisco, where he and Vowell worked driving freight wagons to accumulate a stake to continue north.

In the next few decades Brown played various roles in the history of the West. He became a prospector, then a constable. He hunted buffalo and lived, and loved, with the Metis.

He rode mail for the U.S. Army and escaped after being captured by Sitting Bull. He returned to the Metis, and when the buffalo herds were well on toward extinction he turned to wolfing—poisoning wolves and selling their skins.

As if that wasn't enough for one life, Brown went on, despite times that were rough and which took a heavy toll of rougher men.

In the spring of 1877 in Montana, where he had gone to sell furs, Brown got into a quarrel which left one of the traders murdered. Arrested, Brown attempted suicide but the attempt was thwarted and he was transferred to the territorial capital at Helena, where a grand jury declined to return an indictment against him.

Brown and his wife and child returned to Canadian territory to homestead near Waterton Lakes, where he occasionally frequented Fort Macleod. His life was far from over: He served as a scout with the Rocky Mountain Rangers during the Riel Rebellion of 1885, and still later worked as a packer and scout for the Northwest Mounted Police and early oil interests in the large mountainous region and plains between Fort Steele and Fort Macleod.

And although Rodney laments that his work is far from complete since "the light and shadow of personality, the confirmation of motives, the range and depth of knowledge and interests, cannot be traced with certainty or put down with precision," it's a fascinating book.

"How often do you recommend that my carpets and rugs should be cleaned?"

"Due to the new fibres and very light colors in carpets and rugs you should have them cleaned as soon as soil or dinginess begin to show, particularly in traffic areas. Delay may result in permanent damage."

Meteorite Study A Timely Show

By URSULA SURTEES

In this exciting age of space travel and moon shots, we feel that the current show on meteorites put together by the Museum of Man in Manitoba, is timely.

The study of meteorites has been going on for a good many years now, and probably discoveries and experiments involving meteorites have helped to expand the knowledge and sped up the program for today's Apollo 10 adventures.

Meteorites have made their appearance over the centuries, to be regarded as signs and omens by the superstitious and God-fearing, and as happenings of nature which need careful examination by the more scientific turn of mind.

Scientists consider meteorites to be natural space probes for in their travels through the solar system they have been subject to nearly every element of the space environment. When they come to earth, the story of their travels and the conditions under which their travels took place can be learned from careful studies of the meteorites and the space induced isotopes which they contain. From these studies man can learn much which will be of immeasurable value when the prolonged space flights are undertaken.

"The science of meteorites is yet in its infancy; there is much to be accomplished."

Five panels on which are mounted rocks and meteorites, photographs and maps, are now on display in the Kelowna Centennial Museum until the end of May. A tape recording and a book published by the American Meteorite Laboratory, Denver, Colo., complete the display.

Bob Hope Eyes Things Brightly

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "From now on call me 'Cool Eye Luke,'" Bob Hope said cheerfully. "I'm having it monogrammed on all my towels."

Hope sounded chipper over the telephone from his Palm Springs home. He was having a few days of enforced rest after his second treatment for an eye ailment this year.

Last week he was released from New York's Columbia Presbyterian Medical Centre, where he underwent "exonon-arch photocoagulation" to cauterize tiny blood vessels that had burst in his left eye.

"They zapped it with that beam," said Hope. "Man, I can't live without that fix."

Except for the eye he is in excellent health.

"They examined me from stem to stern," he remarked, "and decided I was in perfect shape, except for that left orb."

"I mean they tested me for everything. Like the sugar test. They fed me sugar and then took blood out of my arm every half hour. Those doctors are just like the government: They keep taking, but they don't give you anything."

Before his release from hospital, Hope was lectured by an internist—"He put me down like a little boy." The essence of the lecture: Bob can't expect at age 65 to have a rehearsal, gold game and show in the same day. "Ok, I'll cut out the show," Hope replied.

Tiny Creditistes Lead Way To All-Out Attack On Grits

OTTAWA (CP) — The smallest party in the Commons led wide-ranging assault on government economic policies Thursday.

The day-long debate was sparked by Creditiste Leader Real Caouette's motion condemning the government for failure "to take adequate measures to give Canadians the benefit of a policy of distribution of goods and services which would allow each citizen to obtain his share of Canadian abundance."

Today the House returns to debate on the official languages bill.

Thursday's motion was made under new House rules that set aside "opposition" days for such debates. No vote is allowed on this particular debate.

Prior to the start of the main debate:

LAW STRENGTHENED

Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford introduced a bill requiring Canadian and foreign-owned business firms to make public their financial affairs.

Immigration Minister Allan MacEachen announced a no-questions-asked immigration policy for military deserters.

Justice Minister John Turner introduced a bill designed to halt off-track horse racing betting.

During the economic debate, Mr. Caouette tangled with one of his favorite sparring partners, Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand.

Mr. Caouette and others in his 14-member group said the government doesn't move to aid the poor because it is controlled by financiers.

"Social Credit isn't crazy when it says the Bank of Canada should be used to finance consumption," he said.

Mr. Marchand accused the Creditistes of fighting for an illusion in terms that border on demagoguery.

"The distribution of wealth is the problem, not the distribution of goods."

Mr. Caouette said his party opposes any move to reduce or eliminate family allowances. He urged financing of public works through the Bank of Canada and interest-free loans.

The government was making war on the poor, not poverty, it introduced bills on sex and language but ignored economic problems.

Mr. Marchand said suggestions for a guaranteed annual income are "not to be rejected." The government was trying to revise the whole approach to social security.

Ross Whicher (L-Bruce) blamed inflation for many problems facing Canada. He didn't blame trade unionists for seeking higher wages but asked where the wage spiral would end.

Jack Horner (PC-Crowfoot) agreed that inflation is the major villain. The government took some $845,000,000 in new taxes from Canadians last year, the greatest increase since Confederation.

U.S. Profers Sea Bed Plan

GENEVA (AP) — The United States submitted today a draft treaty to ban nuclear arms and weapons of mass destruction from the sea bed.

The draft, put before the 17-nation disarmament conference, was in answer to a Soviet draft presented here March 18 which calls for complete demilitarization of the sea bed. The U.S. has rejected this concept.

Apart from the definition of weapons to be banned, the U.S. draft differs from the Soviet one over three other key points:

1. It would apply to areas of the seabed beyond a three-mile coastal limit. The Soviet draft limit is 12 miles.

2. Verification would be by "observation and consultation." U.S. officials regard the Soviet proposal for reciprocal inspection as "ambiguous."

3. The U.S. draft calls for a review conference in Geneva five years after the treaty enters into force. The Soviet draft carries no provision for a review.

Another General Dies In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet defence ministry announced today the death of another Soviet general, the 18th to die since April 10. None of the obituaries has indicated any connection between the deaths.

Red Star, the defence ministry newspaper, said Maj.-Gen. Fyrr Rudchik died at the age of 76 "after a long severe illness."

The paper said Rudchik, a cavalry officer, retired in 1946 because of illness. It said that since then he helped with official campaigns to instill patriotic feeling in Soviet youth.

Ike's Funeral Cost $259,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state funeral of former president Eisenhower cost the U.S. government $259,734 including $78,197 for the train that carried the soldier president's body to Abilene, Kan., for burial. The 78-year-old general died March 28.

Canada 'Unco-operative' With U.S. On ABM Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. G. R. Lindsey, chief of the defence research analysis establishment, said today that if Canada wants protection from the American ABM system, it should consult the U.S. before final decisions are made on base sites.

It's their system and we're not being very co-operative about it at the moment," he told the Commons defence committee.

Dr. Lindsey was replying to Perry Ryan (L-Toronto Spadina) who suggested the Canadian population along the U.S. border would be left in an "extremely disadvantageous position" by the location of the anti-ballistic missiles of the proposed U.S. Safeguard system.

Earlier in the session Carl LeGault (L-Nipissing) asked whether Dr. Lindsey, in his testimony and in a paper presented to the committee Wednesday, was trying to "sell" the idea that the sites should be farther north to prevent interceptions over populated areas of Canada.

Dr. Lindsey said he wasn't trying to sell anything. He was only trying to explain that analysis by his branch showed the sites might provide better protection farther north.

The question of the value of moving the sites farther north has never been investigated, he said. He supposed the Americans had not asked Canada's opinion and Canada had not offered it.

For phase 1 of the Safeguard system, involving two bases to protect Minutemen missiles on the U.S. Prairies, it might be difficult to change.

But he did not think it was too late to change sites for the remaining 10 sites of the system.

Gerald Laniel (L-Beauharnois) suggested Canadians were dreaming if they thought the Safeguard system might be aimed to protect Canadian cities.

Dr. Lindsey said he believes the American plan for final deployment of the system was intended to protect American cities. Canada had not asked whether the system would cover Canadian cities, but it probably would be physically possible if the sites were adjusted.

In his appearance before the committee Wednesday, Dr. Lindsey was accused by David Lewis, NDP deputy leader, of trying to make a case for the ABM system.

Today, in response to a question from Wallace Nesbitt (PC-Oxford) he outlined principal objections that have been made to it.

The first was that the system is not necessary; that U.S. deterrent strength already is sufficient to ensure a reply to any Soviet attack.

This argument certainly is true today, he said, although it might not be the case in 1974-75 when Safeguard would be in operation.

Another argument was that the system would not work because it could never be tested.

There had been American tests in the Pacific in which he believed 11 of 14 ABMs had come close enough to ICBMs to destroy them, he said.

But warheads had not been used and this did not prove the ICBMs would have been destroyed. The defenders in this case also were expecting the attack and there were no decoys.

INTENSIFIES ARMS RACE

A third objection was that the highly-computerized system was more complicated than anything ever tried before. He thought that one reason the Americans were keen to go ahead with Safeguard was to test this electronic equipment.

Speedy New Train Being Developed

MONTREAL (CP)—A speedy new train is being developed by a group of Canadian companies which hope it will avoid the pitfalls of Canadian National Railways' turbo train while retaining many of its advantages.

One executive said the train "can travel over existing tracks at much higher speeds than present equipment, and will have a special suspension system for greater comfort and safety."

The LRC—lightweight, rapid, comfortable—train is being developed by MLW-Worthington Ltd., Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd., and Alcan Aluminium Ltd.

They hope to sell the system to Canadian National Railways, which is still awaiting re-delivery of the much-vaunted turbo train designed by United Aircraft Ltd.

The turbos were removed from service at the beginning of the year following a series of mechanical problems.

CAHA Ends Annual Meeting With Problem, New Structure

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association completed its annual meeting Thursday with a new administrative structure and a junior age problem.

The structural changes, which president Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., said are designed to meet complaints that there is a lack of communication within the governing body, resulted in formation of five-man councils to administer senior-intermediate, junior and minor hockey in Canada.

The intent of the first reorganization in the CAHA's administrative framework since it was formed in 1916 is to give the grass roots members, the men who actually operate hockey teams, a voice in the running of its affairs.

This will be done by having the director of each council sit on an enlarged 21-man board of directors that will also include the president, past president, the executive director, four vice-presidents and 11 branch presidents.

Scrapped was an executive committee consisting of five officers and the branch presidents. But in five days of sittings, delegates made little headway in solving their junior hockey problem.

An agreement with the National Hockey League in May, 1967, set the junior age limit at 20, as of Dec. 31, a restriction that has been buffeted by stiff criticism and last year led to the withdrawal of the Western Canada Hockey League.

Nine resolutions seeking to have the age limit raised by one or two years, including one calling for a new hockey category open to players up to 22 years of age, were defeated.

Delegates thought it would be more discreet to abide by the NHL agreement, but continue to seek permission from the professionals to extend the age limit to 21 as of Dec. 31.

Dawson, who was re-elected, said the CAHA has been trying for some time to change the "nit but the NHL won't budge. The reduced age limit did not go into effect until the 1968-69 season.

Asked why the limit was accepted in the first place, executive director Gordon Jukes of Winnipeg said: "The NHL agreed to eight points we wanted in the agreement, but they insisted on the age limit. When it's 8 to 1 in your favor you take it."

The agreement, which permits professional clubs to draft Canadian players when they exhaust their junior eligibility, calls for the CAHA to provide funds for the CAHA for the development of minor hockey in Canada. Last year this amounted to $603,000, including $75,000 to cover CAHA administrative expenses.

The CAHA even managed to hold peace talks with the WCHL, whose flight from the ranks led to the formation of the Canadian Hockey Association as a rival organization.

But after a one-hour session involving the CAHA executive and the WCHL board of governors headed by chairman Bill Hunter of Edmonton, both sides would say only that "we had a good meeting."

The Good Life But Crowded...

VANCOUVER (CP) — What Premier W. A. G. Bennett calls "The Good Life" in British Columbia could become pretty uncomfortable by the year 2000 if the hoped-for population target of 4,500,000 is realized.

This is the forecast of researcher Dr. Derrick Sewell of the University of Victoria.

He says in a survey that only innovation and technical advances can make life bearable for a population more than double the current 2,000,000.

At the end of this century, as now, most of B.C.'s population will be centred in Vancouver and its suburbs. High-rise apartments will be higher and there will be more of them.

But unless technologists come to the rescue, the region will be generating an awesome 9,000,000 tons of solid garbage a year.

Dr. Sewell also forecasts the area will become a manufacturing centre that will rival

Toronto and Montreal, but this growth will mean deterioration of environment.

"It appears that no self-respecting province should allow more than .5 per cent of its land area to be used for residential purposes," he says. "Following this principle we may expect to see that the present concentration in the Vancouver region will become even more concentrated."

MAY BEAT POLLUTION

This draws a picture of housing creeping up the area's scenic North Shore mountains—now a prime recreational area—and the area of land per capita shrinking from half an acre to one city lot.

"Air pollution has not reached dangerous levels," he says. "No stream can be called a running sewer."

"But if pollution grows at the same rate as the population is expected to expand, we could be living in a rather uncomfortable B.C. by the year 2000."

SOUTH AFRICA TRIP

Kelowna Man Tells Of Travels

This is the eighth and final in a series of articles on South Africa by W. R. Carruthers of Kelowna who is on an extended overseas tour.

The drive from the Little Karoo to Swellendam was rather monotonous, but as we crossed the Pass we got some lovely views. This also applied to our drive to the Little Karoo. The Big Karoo is a huge desert area lying between South Africa and South West Africa. At Swellendam we visited the Old Broodstey House. It is now a museum full of a wonderful collection of furniture, farm, kitchen, dairy and home utensils, as used by the Boers in the early days and on their great trek northwards from the Cape into the Orange Free State and the Transvaal.

It is a most interesting and fascinating place. There is a wonderful collection of old Bibles, many of them as big as a Church Bible, with heavy brass clasps which could be locked. As no doubt my readers will know, the early Boers were very religious people of a strict Calvinistic persuasion, and in the early days the Bible was the only book they read and was the basis of their education.

VERY DULL

From Swellendam the drive is very dull, being through rolling open country, either ploughed for winter wheat planting or of fields of stubble. Eventually we climbed over the mountains above Capetown, but due to the heavy fog were unable to look down on the city, Table Mountain and Table Bay. We did catch a glimpse of False Bay, which is east of the Cape of Good Hope and where the old Royal Navy Base of Simonstown is situated.

We enjoyed Capetown and its countryside, where the bulk of South Africa's grapes are grown, from which the excellent South African wine is made. The city has fine buildings, including the Parliament Buildings in which the South African Parliament meets, although Pretoria in the Transvaal is the administrative capital. This means that every year the bulk of the official records and the civil service pack up and move to Capetown, and after the proroguing of parliament move back to Pretoria!

Doing business with the government is very difficult during these mass moves, as usually the records or the officials required are either in transit, getting ready to move, or getting over the move!

VAST AREA

Like Canada, South Africa is a country of vast distances, and it is therefore inevitable that the scenery does not have the variety in short distances that is found in New Zealand or Great Britain. It is, however, an extraordinarily interesting place to visit. Everything is so different to what we see in North America.

We learnt that if the game reserves are the main reason for a visit it should be made in September or October. Then the grass is short, due to the dry weather, and the animals are more on the move as they have to go to the rivers daily to drink.

Safety Advocate Blasts Mine Union's Leaders

Ralph Nader charges the leadership of the United Mine Workers union is corraling the votes of hundreds of phoney locals—“illegal by the UMW’s own constitution”—to perpetuate itself in office. He says union President W. A. (Tony) Boyle has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on conventions, bands and souvenirs in “a saturation campaign of hero-worship and adulation” for himself while the union claims it can only afford one full-time safety man at its headquarters. Nader, the consumer safety advocate, who lately has been championing coal miners, detailed his latest charges against UMW leadership in a letter to the patriarch of coal miners and the founder of the UMW, John L. Lewis. At 89, Lewis is president emeritus now. He’s also chairman of the board of the union’s welfare and retirement fund. Nader in his letter warned Lewis Thursday that Boyle is trying to freeze him out, take over the job himself, and double his own salary in the process.

Dr. Philip Blalberg, the world’s longest-surviving heart transplant patient, left Groot Schuur Hospital, Cape Town, today, a week after his readmission. Blalberg, who celebrates his 60th birthday Saturday, was released from the South African hospital after surgeons satisfied themselves that his recent attacks of breathlessness were not signs his transplanted heart was being rejected. His exhaustion was generally ascribed to an over-active life.

Otto Lang, minister without portfolio, said Thursday in Ottawa that the decision of Shell Oil Co. to move its offshore drilling rigs from the British Columbia coast to New Zealand has nothing to do with the dispute over offshore mineral rights.

Malcolm MacDonald, former British high commissioner to Canada, says in London he heard that Soviet master-spy Col. Nicolai Zabotin may have committed suicide rather than face his Kremlin rulers after Igor Gouzenko blew his Canadian spy ring. Zabotin was the Soviet military attaché at Ottawa when Gouzenko, his cipher clerk, defected in 1945, taking a mass of incriminating evidence about Soviet spying with him. Zabotin, named by a royal commission as the leader of the spy ring, was called home.

Six Kamloops high school students Thursday tottered home for a good night’s rest after setting a world record of 169 hours for continuous teeter-tottering. “If I close my eyes, I still feel like I’m going up and down,” said Doug Hopp, 17, describing what it felt like to relax after spending almost nine days taking one-hour shifts on the teeter-totter.

Education Minister Donald Brewster said in Victoria Thursday he will try to arrange a meeting with Powell River teachers before they carry out their threat of a one-day strike next week. “They’re an autonomous group and they can do as they wish,” Mr. Brewster said. “But I’m going to attempt to arrange a meeting with their executive because I want to hear what they have to say.”

In Sneem, Ireland, Gen. Charles de Gaulle and his wife left their hotel today—but there is no immediate word on their destination. The de Gaulles were reported to have checked out of the secluded Heron Cove Hotel at dawn along with members of their staff. Police who have guarded the hotel since the former French president arrived May 10 also were withdrawn.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, convicted assassin of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, arrived on death row at San Quentin prison early today after a secret pre-dawn flight from Los Angeles. Sirhan was removed from his heavily guarded cell at Los Angeles Hall of Justice and flown by helicopter to an airport in suburban Van Nuys.

Leaders of Quebec’s 70,000 teachers Thursday rejected a government plea that they abandon plans to submit mass resignations by May 30 unless their protracted contract dispute is settled. The leaders of the province’s three teacher groups dismissed the plea issued earlier by Marcel Masse, minister without portfolio in charge of the civil service, who spoke in the national assembly.

Kenneth Kiernan, provincial minister of conservation, said today in Victoria an immediate probe has been ordered into reported pollution resulting from Kaiser Coal operations in southeastern British Columbia. Mr. Kiernan said at a news conference he has ordered his senior fisheries biologist to contact Kaiser officials immediately to find out if and why construction of siltation ponds has been delayed.

Trail’s mayor F. E. De Vito said Wednesday the total assessed damage by the flood here April 22 is about $2,000,000. Mayor De Vito said he gave this total to L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary, who inquired on behalf of the federal government.

YOU CAN BEAT THE CITY HALL

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — City garbage collectors proved Thursday you can beat city hall.

They refused to pick up two boxes of garbage at city hall and returned the rubbish with a note stating “the boxes are not acceptable tender for garbage pickup since they are not properly tied.”

This is part of a crackdown by the public works department on persons who put garbage in untied boxes, grease pails or paint tins. Only plastic bags or lidded cans are acceptable under a city bylaw.

“Only one note is left,” a department spokesman said. “If they continue to set out garbage in . . . unacceptable containers, our men simply won’t make a pickup.”

Bus Drivers Vote For Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bus drivers employed by the Pacific Stage Lines, a subsidiary of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, Thursday served 72-hour strike notice.

There was no indication that a strike would actually occur when the notice becomes effective Saturday.

PSL bus service to Nanaimo and Victoria from Vancouver already has been halted by pickets posted in the Vancouver depot by other drivers on strike against Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

VICL drivers seek a 52-cent-an-hour increase on a base rate of $3.48. They rejected an offer of 48 cents an hour over two years.

PSL drivers have rejected an offer of 12.5 per cent over two years on a base rate of $3.32 in pursuit of a 15 per cent increase.

'Free Holidays' Lead To Court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two Germans have been charged with small fraud by U.S. authorities here after telling 57,000 people in the U.S. and Canada that they had won free vacations.

Each of the “winners” was asked to post a $25 registration fee, to be refunded the day of departure for either Acapulco or Hawaii, Assistant U.S. Attorney Edward J. Wallin said.

Wallin said Hans George Aust and Roland Graber, both 27, operating Deluxe Vacationer Co. of Hollywood, made false claims in an advertisement published in TV Guide magazine April 5.

The ad said the company was associated with leading travel agencies all over the world and was conducting a “travel preference survey” with 2,000 vacation prizes to be awarded persons who fill out a questionnaire.

Wallin said phoney telephone numbers for the company were listed and that 57,000 winners’ “certificates” were mailed requesting a $25 deposit within 10 days.

No vacations would be scheduled before June 15, according to the notice, Wallin said.

The letters to winners prompted a flood of inquiries to district attorneys, chambers of commerce, better business bureaus, and postal inspectors.

At the arraignment of the two men in U.S. district court, bail was set at $15,000 for each and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for June 13.

Sirhan Now Sued By Wounded Man

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man who was shot by Sirhan Bishara Sirhan in the shower of gunfire that killed Senator Robert F. Kennedy has filed a $500,000 damage suit here against the convicted assassin and the Ambassador Hotel. Ira M. Goldstein, 20, was one of five persons wounded before Sirhan was subdued.

Good Start For Fishing

By JIM TREADGOLD

THE 1969 SPORT fishing season got off to a good start last weekend which saw hundreds of fishing parties into our mountain lakes.

The weather was perfect and reports indicate that the fish were also quite co-operative, with some good and some fair catches.

Okanagan Lake was fair with the Kokanee fishing slower than expected. A few trout reported taken on the Kokanee lures, and on the Mac Squid plug with the Gold Colored Mama Squid giving best results.

Dee Lake reports fishing as good on the chain, using Spratley and Black-o-Lindsay flies. A limit catch was reported from Bear Lake by Alvin Angus. The road into Bear was reported a little rough from the main road turn off but this portion is to be graded soon.

Pennask Lake got open for the holiday and Sandy Fenwick is in at the lake and boats are available. The road in is strictly for four-wheel drives and well-equipped pick-up trucks at this time and cars are asked to stay off the road until it dries more. There is still considerable snow and many mud holes on the last four miles in.

Limit catches were taken on Pennask by Gary Topham and party using the Red Palmer fly only.

LES SCHAEFER reports Oyama Lake as producing, taking a limit catch on the Green Nymph fly. Road in is also wet and muddy.

Jack Pine Lake reports were good for last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, but Monday was off. Thirteen good catches came off the lake with the best taken by an Australian couple and by C. Fenton of Westbank.

There were some nice catches from Beaver Lake and it was a popular spot during the holiday. The road into Beaver is good. Water in lake is high and the hatchery is busy stripping eggs.

Jack Prior reports that he is again running the White Mountain Camp on McCulloch Lake and is now open. Fishing was fair there on the weekend.

A number of people were into Browne Lake but reports are that it was slow. Browne should give up some good fishing this season due to the fairly heavy stocking it has had the past three years.

The road into Browne has a few bad rocks on it for cars and we would like to find a party who could blow the tops off these rocks. If there is anyone with a permit to handle dynamite that could do this little job I would appreciate it if they would contact myself. Transportation would be provided.

SHUSWAP WAS A busy lake on the weekend with all facilities full and traffic police on the water directing the fishermen I am told. Fishing was reported as fair and picking up.

Reg Martin and his five boys did quite well fishing in the Armstrong Bay-Narrows area. Eric Bateson, Gordon Chalmers and Bill Gordon also caught a few nice trout in that area.

I was into Wood Lake at Westwood on Sunday and we found the fishing fairly slow, but what fish were taken were nice, going up to three pounds. So far Wood has not produced like last year and I was reminded by my partner the power of advertising that lake last season was the reason. However, I am sure there are plenty of fish still in the lake, not as many catchable size as last year, but they are now a year older, larger, and a year smarter than last season.

I predict this lake will come on good for fly fishing about the middle of June.

On my way home Sunday evening I counted the boats fishing on Wood Lake at Oyama and figured there were at least 100 boats out for the evening fishing. Reports were that there were some nice catches of Kokanee taken.

POSTILL LAKE resort is open and road in is fair—no reports as yet as to fishing there. There have been a few fair to good reports from Rose Valley Reservoir.

There has been an application made for another fishing camp on the Dee Lake chain on Crooked Lake. My own opinion is that in the interests of conservation, fair play to the established camps in the area and to the summer homes on Crooked this application should not be allowed.

The area is fished a lot as it is. Crooked is the best producing lake on the chain, let's try and keep it that way.

There is a public petition being circulated opposing this application.

Remember all streams in this area are closed until June 30th, but the Kettle watershed is open and the water in most streams there is now receding.

Knudson Shares Early Lead In Atlanta Golf Tournament

ATLANTA (CP) — George Knudson of Toronto, combining an unusual fine putting touch with his usual par-perfect wood and iron play, shared the lead going into today's second round of the $115,000 Atlanta golf tournament.

Knudson, concentrating on special body perfecting courses for two years, shot a spectacular five-under-par par 67 Thursday to the Jacky Cupit for the lead, one stroke ahead of three others, including Arnold Palmer.

And Knudson, whose added brawn has enabled him to become one of the most accurate shooters from tee to green on the Professional Golfers' Association tour, ran in birdie putts of 40, 15, 15, five, four and two feet.

The only other Canadian in the field was Ken Fulton of Winnipeg and Trail, B.C., who shot an opening round 38-40—78.

31 ON FRONT NINE

Knudson's 31 strokes on the front nine of the 7,053-yard Atlanta Country Club layout was the best for the day.

But the Toronto health fanatic's chief rival going into today's second round appeared to be Palmer, who suddenly began to putt like the Palmer of the past.

The multi-millionaire, who made a fortune out of golf but hasn't won since last September, didn't spread the word. But it got out anyway that he took a tip from a lady about putting on the eve of Thursday's opening round.

Palmer had dinner Wednesday night at the home of Tom Brown, an Atlanta executive in the Arnold Palmer Golf Co., whose wife, Dottie, is a former Georgia women's champion.

The Browns showed Palmer their den where the carpeting is designed to simulate a putting green, and a regulation golf cup is sunk in the floor.

Mrs. Brown said she thought she could help Palmer's putting, which has been his downfall in recent months.

She stepped up and knocked in 10 straight putts from 10 feet. "Arnold's eyes lighted up," and he grabbed the putter, Brown said.

"Then he knocked in 35 putts in a row from 10 feet away, and the only reason he missed then was because we were all giggling and laughing, and Arnold finally broke down laughing," Brown said.

Comer Finds His Niche With Expansion Pilots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wayne Comer's claim to fame as the indispensable warm-up man for Mickey Lolich during last year's World Series appears over.

Instead of warming up American League pitchers, he is making himself known by wearing them out.

After 6½ years in the minor leagues and portions of two seasons in the majors, Comer is making some noise as a hitter with Seattle Pilots.

Washington heard for him Thursday when he rapped a three-run homer and a two-run double that boosted the Pilots to a 7-4 victory over the Senators. The five runs batted in gave Comer two more than he had last year with the Tigers.

The night gave him 23 RBI's and six homers, along with a 253 batting average, far better than his 125 with Detroit.

Comer's outburst highlighted a night for hitters as not one American League pitcher managed to go the distance.

In other games, Chicago White Sox jumped on Denny McLain for a 7-3 victory over Detroit Tigers, Baltimore Orioles trimmed Minnesota Twins 6-2, Cleveland Indians stopped Kansas City Royals 4-1 and Boston Red Sox edged California Angels 4-3.

ROLE NOTICED
Comer, 25, batted only three times for the Tigers in 1967 and 48 times last season. He managed a hit in his only at bat during the World Series, but it was his success as a warm-up catcher where he was noticed.

Lolich won his first two games in the series with Comer catching him between innings, and when Comer didn't show before one inning of the final game, the superstitious Lolich refused to throw. He wanted only Comer.

Comer finally arrived and Lolich went on to win the deciding game.

Comer's double in the third inning gave the Pilots a 4-2 lead. When the Senators pulled ahead 5-4 on Mike Epstein's 11th homer and Ed Stroud's run-scoring hit, Comer came back with his three-run blast in the seventh.

The White Sox wasted little time handing McLain his fourth loss against six wins as they scored four times in the first inning, two on Bill Melton's homer.

2 HURL 5-HITTER
Gerry Nyman and Dan Osinski combined on a five-hitter for the Chicago victory at Milwaukee before 15,948 fans.

Frank Robinson hit his 12th home run in the sixth inning and then singled in the tie-breaking run in a five-run seventh. It was Baltimore's seventh victory in eight games. Reliever Dick Hall got the win after starter Jim Hardin failed to retire a batter as the Twins took a 2-0 lead.

Starting pitcher Horacio Pina's first major-league hit drove in the first run of a three-run second inning and Ray Fosse added his first major-league homer in the eighth for Cleveland against Kansas City.

Stan Williams saved the victory for Pina who left in the sixth inning with a hand injury.

Astros Extend Winning Streak As Expos Add To Losing Streak

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A pair of National League baseball streaks were extended Thursday night in the Houston Astrodome when the Astros posted a 7-4 win over Montreal Expos.

The Astros, who got off to a poor start with only four wins in 23 games during April, downed the Expos for their fifth consecutive victory and their 14th in 18 games this month.

Montreal slipped deeper into the league's six-team Eastern Division, taking their seventh straight defeat.

Don Wilson, who started Houston's revival with a no-hitter against Cincinnati Reds May 1, collected his fourth win of the season. He needed help from Fred Gunning when the Expos, trailing 7-3, rallied with three ninth-inning hits, including a home run by catcher John Bateman.

Jim Wynn belted his ninth homer of the season in the first inning to give the Astros a 2-0 lead and the winners added three more runs in the second.

Joe Morgan, who drove across one of the second-inning runs with a single, produced two more with a seventh-inning double.

LOOSE PLAY
Montreal scored their first three runs in the fourth through errors charged to Wilson and Doug Radar, along with Bob Bailey's two-run single.

In other games, Atlanta Braves clubbed New York Mets 15-3, St. Louis Cardinals dumped San Francisco Giants 8-3 in 11 innings, Chicago Cubs blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 3-0 on Chatham, Ont., native Ferguson Jenkins' four-hitter, and Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed San Diego Padres 7-1.

Atlanta collected 18 hits, including homers by Hank Aaron, Felix Millan and Cleve Boyer, off five Mets pitchers.

Aaron's two-run shot in the first inning was the 519th home run of his career, leaving him two short of Ted Williams and fifth place on the all-time list.

Cleon Jones robbed him of another homer with a leaping catch later.

In the seventh, Aaron was lifted for a pinch hitter for the first time in his career, as manager Lum Harris took advantage of the big lead to rest the 35-year-old slugger.

BROCK DELIVERS
Lou Brock broke a 2-2 tie with an 11th-inning homer and the Cardinals went on to score five more runs to beat the Giants.

St. Louis rallied to tie the score with two out in the ninth when second baseman Ron Hunt booted Curt Flood's two-out grounder. Joe Torre and Tim Lincecum followed with singles to bring Flood home.

Throw Strikes To Win Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The message to Ferguson Jenkins from his Chicago Cubs teammates was clear and simple.

"You just throw strikes," it said, "and we'll get you the runs."

Both parties lived up to their bargain. Jenkins, from Chatham, Ont., yielded only four hits and struck out seven Thursday night while his mates manufactured three runs off Bill Singer of Los Angeles Dodgers as the Cubs collected a 3-0 victory.

Jenkins, the National League's strikeout leader with 72, might have ended up with a two-hitter but two ground balls which bounced off first baseman Ernie Banks' glove were ruled base hits.

Federal Government Moves In To Restrain Off-Track Betting

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has moved to halt a blossoming business in off-track betting.

A bill presented to the Commons Thursday would make operation of such betting services an offence punishable by two years in prison.

The bill, drawn up by the government in response to strong provincial pressure, was given routine first reading.

Justice Minister John Turner said in a statement outside the House that the 10 provincial attorneys-general are unanimous that off-track betting should be banned under the Criminal Code.

"The proposed legislation will be an absolute bar to placing bets for another person for a consideration," Mr. Turner said.

SEEKS UNIFORM LAW
He was prepared to consider with the provinces, however, any representations that might be made to amend the law further to permit off-track betting under provincial licence. The justice minister said he will raise the question at the conference of uniformity commissioners in the fall. The conference is a federal-provincial gathering to bring the law in the various provinces into line. Mr. Turner said the provinces have opposed such a move. However, recent Criminal Code amendments allowed the operation of lotteries under provincial control.

"It may be that in the management of these licensing schemes the provinces will reconsider the advisability of licensing off-track betting facilities."

The provinces hold that the "messenger" service for placing bets can be an effective screen for unlawful bookmaking.
